Widgeon Marsh Regional Park

Be among the first to visit a park in progress!

Widgeon Marsh Regional Park—a remote, spectacular natural area—recently opened for limited public access. This marks the first time the public is able to experience one of our region’s most ecologically significant natural areas. Widgeon Marsh is part of southwest BC’s largest freshwater wetland and provides habitat to a variety of wildlife, including bears, cougars, and coyotes.

“Widgeon Marsh Regional Park is a remarkable ecological treasure, and we’re proud to take this important step toward welcoming the public,” said Mike Hurley, Chair of Metro Vancouver’s Board of Directors. “This limited opening reflects our commitment to protecting sensitive habitats while creating meaningful opportunities for people to connect with nature. We’re grateful for the collaboration with First Nations and local communities, and we look forward to continuing this work.”

Free reservations are required to either drive in or take the weekend shuttle bus. Once there, be prepared for a 6 to 7 km round-trip walk to reach the marsh edge where you can admire sweeping mountain views. Hike beside steep forested slopes or picnic in a meadow surrounded by wilderness.

Learn what to expect before you go and reserve a spot at metrovancover.org (search “Widgeon Marsh”).

About Metro Vancouver

Metro Vancouver is a diverse organization that plans for and delivers regional utility services, including water, sewers and wastewater treatment, and solid waste management. It also monitors and regulates air quality, plans for urban growth, manages a regional parks system, provides affordable rental housing, and serves as a regional federation. The organization is a federation of 21 municipalities, one electoral area, and one treaty First Nation located in the region of the same name. The organization is made up of four separate legal entities, each governed by its own Board of Directors. Board directors are elected officials from member jurisdictions.

Regional parks are part of a larger system that includes regional park reserves, ecological conservancy areas, and greenways. These green spaces protect diverse natural landscapes and habitats spread out over BC's largest metropolitan area.

All of these places are located on the shared territories of many Indigenous peoples, including 10 local First Nations: ǵícǵǵ (Katzie), ǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Kwantlen), kǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Kwikwetlem), máthxwi (Matsqui), xǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Musqueam), qǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Qayqayt), Semiahmo, Sǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Tsawwassen), and sǵǵǵǵǵǵ (Tsleil-Waututh).
